ALFONSO NAMES PREMIER

NEW CONSTITUTION POSSIBLE AS PARTY LEADER APPOINTED

Jose Sanchez Guerra
Begins Formation
Of Cabinet

MADRID, Feb. 16.—Jose Sanchez Guerra, a leader of the constitutional party, today accepted the offer of King Alfonso to attempt the formation of a cabinet.

The constitutional party unanimously has demanded the convocation of a constituent assembly. Senor Guerra's selection as premier would thus indicate that the king has reconciled himself to the advent of a new constitution with probable severe curtailment of royal prerogatives.

The premier-designate refrained from making public comment, but it was believed he would pursue the aims of his party, whose leaders have consistently demanded that King Alfonso "take a vacation" while the constitutional convention frames a new constitution to replace that of 1876.

Sanchez Guerra's group, which includes such influential political leaders as Melguizar Alvarez, have demanded a constitutional convention empowered to decide whether Spain should remain a monarchy or become a republic.

The liberal monarchists under the leadership of Count Romanones, on the other hand, want a constitutional convention not empowered to declare a republic but merely to limit the king's power.

The king tendered the premiership to Guerra, realizing that by so doing he was entrusting his future to the Spanish people. He awaits their verdict with some anxiety, but he has always been a sportsman and he is taking his chances on winning, losing or drawing.

Guerra's formula for solving Spain's present unsettled political situation provides for the immediate convocation of a constituent cortes empowered to decide whether the country shall remain a monarchy or become a republic.

Since Saturday's crisis the king has been trying to avoid acceptance of the Guerra formula. His own idea was to form a monarchist coalition government, which would have convoked parliament. The parliament would then have decided whether or not to call together a constitutional assembly to revise the 1876 Spanish constitution or draft a new one.

These efforts failed and the king finally called Guerra, who, a year ago, proclaimed that he would never again serve the king.

"The king described the country's difficult situation and I therefore accepted his commission to try to form a government," was Guerra's only comment after an interview at the palace.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Undisturbed by the reports from Madrid that the Spanish throne hung in the balance in the present political situation, Queen Victoria of Spain left for Madrid today to be at King Alfonso's side during the crisis.

King George and Queen Mary were at the station to bid her farewell.

Queen Victoria hastened to London when the condition of her mother, Princess Beatrice, took a grave turn. Princess Beatrice, who contracted bronchitis after breaking an arm, is now convalescing.

CANTON BANK IS TAKEN OVER

CANTON, O., Feb. 16.—The Canton Bank and Trust Co. one of the smaller banking institutions in downtown Canton, was taken over by the state superintendent of banks today following the discovery of a shortage of $20,500 in funds.

C. A. Hanner, vice-president of the bank, was placed under arrest on affidavits charging embezzlement. Following a preliminary hearing before Municipal Court Judge U. S. Snyder, Hanner was released under bond of $25,000.

FIREMEN OVERCOME BY FUMES FROM FIRE

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 16.—A scene recalling the disastrous Cleveland clinic tragedy of May 15, 1929 when 125 persons fell victims to fumes from burning films was enacted here today when fire followed an explosion in the plant of the Pick Pen Co.

More than a dozen persons were overcome by poisonous fumes from blazing celluloid. They were rushed to hospitals. Most of the victims were firemen.

ARTHUR MORGAN HEARD IN LABOR SYMPOSIUM

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Labor-saving machinery hits the young man, not the old, according to Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College, whose findings were made public today in a symposium on unemployment. A census conducted by Antioch showed, Morgan said, a constantly increasing proportion of older men in industry in the last twenty years and a decreasing proportion of younger men.

Newton W. Baker, of Cleveland, president of the American Association for Adult Education, who also participated in the symposium, placed some responsibility for reducing the unemployed for other work on industry.

"I have a notion that the advantages and gains which come from machinery have no right to be all

DOUBLE EXECUTION PLANNED ALTHOUGH PAIR STILL HOPING

Schroder Woman And
Dague To Die Unless Board Acts

BELLEFOUNTE, Pa., Feb. 16.—Without heeding the possibility of the state board of pardons acting favorably on the commutation of their death sentences, officials of Rockview Penitentiary here were completing arrangements today for the execution of Irene Schroder and W. Glenn Dague, scheduled to die in the electric chair one week from tonight.

Unless the pardon board interferes with the death warrants, three persons will go to their deaths the same night. The third is Wilfred Flood, of Luzerne, Pa., also sentenced to die February 23. According to the numbers on the death warrants, Flood will be executed first. It has not yet been learned who will be next to pay the penalty.

Under present plans the notorious blonde "trigger-girl" and her lover will not be brought to the prison until next Sunday night and may not reach the death house until almost the hour set for the execution. The pair was condemned to die the slaying of Corporal Brady Paul, of the Pennsylvania state highway patrol on December 27, 1929, near Butler.

Efforts will be made by state and Lawrence County officials to keep the pair's departure from New Castle a secret in order to avoid as much publicity as possible and to stifle the public's curiosity in regard to their reactions.

Penitentiary officials have been besieged with applications for permission to witness the execution. One request was made by a minister who said that his desire to see the electrocution was not through morbid curiosity but because of the educational advantage it might have for his work.

Many newspaper men from all parts of the state and from various New York papers have appealed for passes, but under the law, prison officials said, only the usual number of less than a dozen will be admitted.

Since the electric chair was installed here as the instrument of death, 205 persons have paid with their lives for murder out of the 276 death warrants issued, giving evidence that one out of five escapes the chair after the death warrant has been signed by the governor.

CANADIAN TARIFF HEARINGS TO START

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 16.—Prime Minister Bennett will on Tuesday start public hearings on the Canadian plan for revision of the customs tariff at the approaching session of parliament. Huge imports from the United States to be affected.

One hundred items, including fresh and canned fruits and vegetables, livestock, meats, grains and wool, will be involved in the tariff and are bound to affect annual imports from the United States totaling between forty and fifty million dollars.

Among the import items which are expected to be hit is oranges of which Canada imported $9,000,000 worth last year. Canada imported $1,200,000 worth of American eggs last year, more than $1,240,000 in hams and bacon, and $1,500,000 in canned soups last year. These items with American wheat, corn and oats, which totaled $10,000,000 last year, are expected to be included in the drive for tariff protection.

BANDITS GET CASH

CLEVELAND, Feb. 16.—Three robbers, armed and unmasked, staged a daring daylight holdup of the Echo Dairy here today, escaping with a loot of $1,400 in cash, the week-end receipts of the company.

PLANS OCEAN HOP

Summer plans of Miss Marlon Eddy, youthful American aviator, include a solo transatlantic flight, London to New York. She holds the American altitude record for women in an amphibian plane. Miss Eddy has been making several flights over the English channel, to practice flying blind.

IDENTIFICATION OF MARTIN PROTESTED BY DEFENSE LAWYER

Produces Second Man
With Same Name To Prove Alibi

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 16.—There are two "Hyman Martin's"—one, "Pittsburgh Hymie," is held under a murder charge for the slaying of William E. Potter, former Cleveland councilman—but neither was implicated in Potter's murder.

This startling defense was set up in Hymie's behalf today by his counsel, Samuel S. Rosenberg, who declares the man under arrest here to be a victim of mistaken identification.

Rosenberg went to Harrisburg to participate in extradition proceedings today. In his company was Hymie's "double" also named Hyman Martin—who, the attorney asserted, lived next door to the apartment house in Cleveland where Potter's body was found.

A little thinner and somewhat shorter, otherwise, Rosenberg said, the man strongly resembles Hymie and is even wearing the same kind of clothes worn by Martin when he was arrested and identified as the occupant of the apartment where the murder occurred.

Harrisburg held the center of the stage in the Potter murder probe today with Rosenberg promising to produce the "double" in an effort to avert extradition of Hymie to Ohio. Hearing on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus has been postponed until Wednesday, by which time it is expected Governor Pinchot will have decided the extradition question.

Meanwhile, unremitting search continued in Pittsburgh and the tri-state district of Eastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania and West Virginia for Mary Altman, Akron blonde and alleged friend of Martin. Phone calls alleged to have been made from Columbus by Mrs. Joan Lewis to the blonde were traced to two homes in Dormont, a suburb, but a detail of detectives found no trace of the Altman woman at either home.

DROUGHT RELIEF IS STILL IN DISPUTE; INCREASE FAVORED

Minority Says Poor Will Not Benefit From Bills Now

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—After appropriating $67,000,000 for drought relief but facing demands for more funds to aid the suffering, the Hoover administration today faced the task of enacting ten major appropriation bills in fifteen days in order to avoid a special session of the new congress, after March 4.

The drought relief question appeared settled on the surface when congress finally passed the $20,000,000 additional food loan bill, which President Hoover quickly signed. There were rumors, though, that the minority, who opposed this measure on the ground of "inadequacy," would move to appropriate $25,000,000 more for the aid of drought sufferers too poor to secure loans under the other bills.

Thus far, the government has appropriated $67,000,000 for the drought sufferers.

The bills are:
1. $45,000,000 for feed, seed and fertilizer loans upon crop liens, providing all other debts are waived by the farmer's creditors.
2. $2,000,000 for the purchase of medical supplies and for rural sanitation in drought states.
3. $20,000,000 for loans to credit organizations or to farmers on easy security to be used, if necessary, in buying food, clothing and medicine.

One other relief measure, an appropriation of $2,000,000 to be used as a feed, seed and fertilizer loan revolving fund in southeastern states, is pending in another appropriation bill. There was every indication this would be enacted finally but that the Copper plan for distributing 20,000,000 bushels of wheat, out of the store now held by the federal farm board, would be abandoned. The Copper plan was opposed by the farm board itself as likely to smash wheat prices.

A senate bloc, headed by Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, was far from satisfied with this program. They insisted the common farmer, lacking crops and other security, would be "left to die" when congress adjourns. They declared the Red Cross would abandon these helpless citizens, and even now contemplated abandoning its relief activities in Arkansas and other drought centers.

This group declared there was not one dollar of relief provided, except through loans. They insisted the drought sufferer lacking security, should be cared for by the federal government, regardless of the activity of state governments.

It was possible this maneuver might gain considerable strength, because it would likewise provide relief for the unemployed in the cities.

The administration thus far has vigorously opposed such relief but may again be forced to change its attitude, if sufficient strength develops to threaten a special session of the new congress. Consequently administration leaders regarded their task of getting nine more major appropriation bills through congress with considerable alarm. They fear the situation in the senate only, since the house has limited debate and is always under the control of its leaders.

Night sessions will be held this week and if the opposition starts a filibuster, the gag rule of cloture will be invoked. On return for Republican support of the additional $20,000,000 drought appropriation, some Democratic leaders have pledged themselves to aid the administration in completing its program before March 4, even to the extent of invoking cloture.

XAVIER PRESIDENT BURIED AT MILFORD

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 16.—Funeral services for the late Rev. Hubert P. Brockman, former president of Xavier University, were held today at St. Xavier Church. Burial was at Milford.

A choir of priests chanted the office of the dead after which the funeral requiem low mass was celebrated.

The funeral services were attended by three high prelates of the Catholic Church, immediate relatives and mourning friends.

Archbishop John T. McNicholas, Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Albers, auxiliary bishop of Cincinnati; Bishop Francis W. Howard, Covington, Ky.; Russell Wilson, mayor of Cincinnati, and Rev. Harry F. Brockman, member of the faculty of John Carroll University, Cleveland, were among those who attended the funeral services.

Immediately after the funeral, a cortege wound its way to the cemetery on the Milford Novitiate, property of the Jesuit Order at Milford.

Famed Aerial Performer In Final "Death Whirl"

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 16.—A headlong plunge to the floor in a music hall here Friday night during her trapeze "death whirl" resulted today in the death of Lillian Leitzel, favorite circus aerial performer in many countries.

The lithe "queen of the air" died in a delirium from head and spine injuries after crashing to the floor from a height of thirty feet before a horrified audience. The diminutive, silken-clad figure fell upon a rubber mat, which broke the force of the fall somewhat. A broken trapeze ring was blamed for the accident.

Immediately after the fall, the little star assured friends she was not seriously hurt, and protested against being taken to a hospital. As she hurtled down, her shoulders instinctively hunched in an attempt to break the fall, but physicians from the beginning predicted she would never perform under the "big top" again.

For a few hours after the accident she appeared to be improving rapidly, but a relapse suddenly set in and brain injuries shortly proved fatal. It brought to an end a career that had furnished thousands with rare thrills.

FEDERAL NARCOTIC RAIDS UNDER PROBE AFTER BOLD ARRESTS

FORD BUYS WAGON

URBANA, O., Feb. 16.—A lowly mail wagon that broke many a path along the rural routes out of North Lewisburg in the era before the automobile, has taken on a new significance, it was learned today.

No less a person than Henry Ford, the automobile magnate, has purchased the antiquated hawker for Amos Reed, former owner, for his historical museum near Detroit.

The wagon is one of the real old-timers. It resembles a little box set high upon four wheels. A small smokestack protrudes from one side.

QUARTET DENY PART IN TRAIN ROBBERY; GRILLED BY POLICE

Trainmen Refuse To View Suspects To Identify Them

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 16.—Attempts to identify four men in the city jail here as bandits who robbed a Big Four passenger train between Bellefontaine and Carey Jan. 21 so far having proved futile, additional questioning by police was to follow today in an effort to break down the quartet's denials.

Though expressing confidence that some of the group held in jail for participation in local drug store robberies participated in the train hold-up, railroad detectives have not yet filed charges in that case.

Identification efforts received a setback yesterday when two trainmen on the train No. 9 which was robbed, netting booty of $25,000 and resulting in the shooting of one passenger, refused to come to Columbus to view the men.

The six bandits who boarded their train were masks, George Bettinger, flagman, and Walter Morrison, head brakeman, both of Bellefontaine, said, and identification therefore would be almost impossible.

S. R. Scott, Bellefontaine, captain of the Big Four police, expected to introduce new information into today's questioning in an effort to "make them talk."

The men held on local robbery charges and questioned in the train hold-up investigation are Charles C. Bright, 42; Charles Dwyer, 38; Patrick Lousch, 22; Eddie Fritch, 37, and Eugene Johnson, 22, who is near death in a local hospital suffering a bullet wound from a policeman's revolver. All gave Columbus addresses.

TREASURY BALANCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Treasury balance Feb. 13: $148,086,597.72. Expenditures: $6,032,006.24. Customs receipts: $11,114,565.27.

THREE BURNED TO DEATH WHEN AUTO STRIKES FREIGHT TRAIN

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 16.—A coroner's inquest was opened today into the deaths of two young women and a man who were burned to death Sunday morning when their automobile crashed into a Detroit, Toledo and Ironton freight train and burst into flames near here. The three were trapped beneath the wreckage and could not escape.

The victims were Paul Shertzer, 22, of Toledo; Hilda Shertzer, 19, of Tiffin, his sister; and Mrs. Emerson Embury, 29, a maid at the Shertzer home.

VETERAN ACTOR IS CALLED

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Funeral services will be held tomorrow under direction of the Friars Club for Louis Mann, veteran actor. He died last night at the age of 65 after a long illness.

With him when he died were Clara Lipman, his wife, also of the stage, and two old friends, Fannie Hurst, the writer, and Representative William L. Stovich.

The honorary pallbearers will include former Governor Alfred E. Smith and Mayor Walker.

Mann first appeared on the stage at the age of three and starred in many notable American successes.

PRESIDENT FACING REORGANIZATION OF FARM BOARD SOON

Chairman Legge And
McKelvie To Retire
From Body

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—President Hoover faces the difficult task of almost completely reorganizing his federal farm board during the next few months.

Alexander H. Legge, the plain talking chairman, around whose head has swirled much of the controversy that has attended the board's policies, is retiring after March 4, to return to his $100,000 a year job as head of the International Harvester Co.

Samuel R. McKelvie of Nebraska, the wheat member of the board who has shared with Legge the criticism of the board's activities in wheat, will retire in June. The terms of the two other commissioners, C. C. Teague of California and Wm. F. Schilling of Minnesota, also expire in June. They have not announced whether they will accept reappointment.

The impression obtains in Washington that President Hoover will name James C. Stone of Kentucky, to succeed Legge in the chairmanship. Stone is now vice chairman. He represents the tobacco growers on the board and is considered one of the foremost authorities in the country on cooperative methods of growing and marketing.

The necessity for virtually re-making the board has aroused considerable speculation here as to its entire future. Before adjournment on March 4, Congress is expected to vote the board an additional $100,000,000, which represents the last of the half billion dollars originally authorized for Mr. Hoover's plan of farm relief.

It is unlikely that congress will vote the money without at the same time indulging in some frank criticism of what the board has accomplished with the other $400,000,000.

LEGISLATORS BACK TO FILL "HOPPERS"

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16.—Armed with numerous "last minute" bills, measures and proposals, Ohio's legislators "returned to the grind" today prepared for a bombardment upon the legislative hoppers Tuesday, which marks the time limit for introduction of bills this session.

Between 200 and 300 measures were expected to be jammed into the house and senate hoppers by Tuesday. After that date, bills cannot be offered unless the legislative branch in which the proffer takes place agrees to suspend the rules.

GUNMAN SOUGHT FOR CHICAGO SHOOTING

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Police today were searching for a tall, heavy set gunman who shot Miss Vallene Urick, 22-year-old night club entertainer, wounding her in the right foot.

The shooting occurred in front of a night club yesterday and was said to have been the culmination of a dispute between two of the club's habitués.

Auto Hits Abutment
Near Osborn Early
Monday Morning

Two women, one of whom was identified as the divorced wife of an Indianapolis, Ind., motorcycle policeman, were killed almost instantly, two colored men were injured perhaps fatally and a third colored man, escaped with slight injuries when a sedan crashed into a concrete abutment on the Springfield-Dayton Pike, three miles west of Osborn, at 3 a. m. Monday.

The dead are—Mrs. Magdeline Ball, about 35, white, 439 S. Arlington Ave., Indianapolis, established as the divorced wife of Barnett W. Ball, traffic officer.

Lucile Harris, colored, 77 Barnett St., Dayton.

Albert Kidd, 32, colored, Barnett St., Dayton, in Miami Valley Hospital at Dayton with both legs broken below the hip, internal injuries and a possible skull fracture. His condition is critical.

Richard Kidd, colored, 20 Powers St., Dayton, brother of Albert and owner and driver of the auto, escaped with a scratch on the nose, although the sedan was completely wrecked. Mrs. Ball is said to have been visiting at the Powers St. address.

The machine was being driven toward Dayton and according to information obtained by Sheriff John Baughn and L. A. Davis, county road patrolman, who investigated, Kidd failed to negotiate a sharp curve at the bottom of a steep hill.

The two unconscious men were rushed to the Dayton hospitals while the bodies of the two women were removed to the undertaking parlors of H. P. Loritz, Dayton, in a Leo Walters ambulance.

The driver of the car is being held in the county jail here and was questioned Monday morning by Coroner R. L. Haines and Prosecuting Attorney Marcus McCallister.

COLLISION IS FATAL TO FOUR

Two Hurt When Auto
Hits Street Car

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Four young persons were dead and two others were reported to be dying today following a head-on collision between their automobile and a crowded street car.

The two women and two men killed outright were: Mrs. Julia Ahrens, 19-year-old bride of five months, Joseph Budak, 25, Frank Swift, 28, and an unidentified young woman.

Believed to have been the fiancée of Swift, a man and a woman riding in the car were seriously injured.

None of the passengers on the street car was injured although the automobile tore away an entire platform of the surface car. Paving materials on the street, under repair, caused the crash. An inquest will be held today.

FAMILY RESCUED AS FLAMES RAZE HOUSE

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory. While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.—II Corinthians, iv, 17, 18.

FATHER AND SON

Celebration of the annual "father and son" week is a good thing because it is needed for the sake of all concerned. But the fact that there is a place for anything of the sort, seems to us to be a good deal of a reflection on the American male parent.

Admission by a father that he is setting apart a specified time in which to get acquainted with his son or sons, is equivalent to a confession that he has been guilty of negligence week after week and month after month, and now in a few days is trying to make up for his failure.

It is impossible for anybody to perform the feat he is attempting. Confidence between parent and child is not born of conscious, deliberate, calculating effort to put over a "get together" program in a convention atmosphere, or under the stress of a "special drive." Relationship which amounts to anything must be born of genuine friendship and understanding; it must grow out of community of interest, and those things are not born in a day; nor are they the result of calculation, if they amount to much. They must be inspired by genuine sympathy between the partners in the relationship.

Father and son week helps, under the conditions that exist in a great many American homes, but it is a poor substitute for something much better, and the father who feels himself obliged to resort to it in order to get into touch with his boy, ought to feel ashamed of himself.

NOT NECESSARY

Senator Nye and his committee have threatened to "investigate" the campaign activities of Bishop Cannon in 1928, and a story from Washington remarks that authority to make the inquiry was granted "on motion of Senator Glass," a political enemy of Bishop Cannon.

It is not necessary to admire Bishop Cannon or hold a brief for him in order to be unable to see how any good purpose can be served by a muck-raking probe, apparently designed to "get" an individual who has offended certain powers which reign in the senate of the United States. Whatever may have been the activities and methods of the bishop, an investigation by the Nye committee will amount to little more than persecution, unless the outfit adopts methods much unlike those that have featured a great part of its activity up to now.

Beside all that, it is a grave question whether the Nye committee should be entrusted with any more money and authority until its own expenditure and conduct have been pretty thoroughly investigated.

MANY STORIES

One story says that President Hoover intervened and made Secretary Adams call off his scheme to try General Butler by court-martial. Another story says that the Italian government, which means Benito Mussolini, sent a protest against a proceeding which would keep alive and emphasize accusations and criticisms the dictator wants forgotten as soon as possible. Either way, Mr. Adams seems to be occupying the position known as "the middle," with General Butler, the "culprit," the only person really "sitting pretty," and conceding only a perfunctory expression of sorrow, which is about as convincing as the regret a cat shows after swallowing a mouse.

So that's that. Yet there is one point the secretary might clear up if he should care to gratify a rather lively public curiosity. Why was he in such a terrible hurry to put General Butler on the carpet that he jumped without looking to see whether he was going to land on solid ground or in a bog?

The Ohio State Journal observes that we hear no more about the dangers of flissing. Perhaps that is because the young people are becoming braver than they used to be, and don't pay any attention to danger.

Now there is talk about the lash for drunk drivers who offend a second time. Why not use the law as it stands first, and try handing out a few year-long prison sentences?

On nights the heavens look just as they used to before we were told that space is curved and maybe there is an end to creation.

ALL of US

I'LL TELL YOU WHY

I said I didn't like you—and people asked me why that was, because really you're a very fine fellow. They told me how square you are, the things you've done, the things you've said, and they pressed me to explain the secret of my dislike.

I told them a few things. You'd said this and you'd done that. You quarreled with my friend, you had ridiculous theories, you'd bored me once, contradicted me sharply on another occasion, passed me without saying hello—things like that. I hid my real reason, kept it securely locked away, didn't tell them that. But I'll tell you.

I dislike you because you're too much like me. I've known you a long time and I think I know you as I know myself. I've been noticing you. You're selfish! Not in big things, but in little things that most of your friends don't notice at all.

You're vain! Don't tell me it isn't true. I've seen you flush and stutter and stammering defend yourself against little criticisms and be disturbed for hours because of something someone had said.

And you haven't any sense of humor! Oh, I know people say you have, but I know better. You make jokes, you smile, you laugh, but I haven't heard you laugh at yourself and that's the real test of that magical possession. Don't deny these charges to me. They're true and you know they're true and they are why I don't like you.

You are so much like me that I can't like you. I ought to like you because you are so much like me? Oh, no! It doesn't work that way at all. We like the people who are not like us, we dislike those others who have the same vanities, the same small vices that torture us continually. So you mirror me. And instead of reproaching myself, I ease my soul by disliking you.

It's true, you know it's true, and it'll do you no good to deny it. And you needn't say that you like me even if I don't like you—because that would be a Whopper.

We don't like people who don't like us and people who have the same vices of which we are ashamed are a living reproach—and I wish you lived somewhere else, where I would not see you so often. I was never much of an explorer; couldn't you move to the South Pole?

THE QUESTION BOX

Central Press Wash. Bureau

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

If a state impeaches and removes a certain number of governors in succession, does this action revert the state to the status of a territory? Or, having been admitted to the Union, is a state always a state? When the constitution of a state is approved by congress and it is admitted to the Union, congress passes a "statehood bill." This bill is similar to an ordinary law except that it is irrevocable, so that a state, once admitted, could not be ejected at the will of congress. Once a state is admitted to the Union it is politically equal to all the others, and has the same power to control its domestic affairs that the other states have.

Eight-Hour Day

When did workers first demand an eight-hour day? When was the first law passed granting this?

Shortly after the Civil war, wage-earners demanded an eight-hour day on the ground that the increased leisure due to the shorter working day would raise the workingman's standard of living. It became an issue in gubernatorial campaigns throughout the country, and in 1868 congress passed an eight-hour day law applying to all laborers and mechanics employed by or on behalf of the United States government. This was followed by state laws granting the eight-hour day, though many of these laws were ineffective due to the addition of a rider providing that the law should not be obligatory if there was an agreement otherwise.

NEW YORK.—Peggy Joyce, chief of America's Blondes Preferred, after 20 years of marriage to seven husbands, advises women queuing attractiveness to get all the sleep they can.

"I sleep a lot," says Peggy. "Not, of course, always during the night. Sometimes I don't get up till it's time to dress for dinner and go out again. But sleep is sleep, whether the sun is shining or not. Never permit anything to interfere with that."

COCKTAIL COMPLEXION

Peggy opines that a woman who wishes to retain her good looks must "lay off highballs and cocktails." She is substantiated in this by no less an authority than the inimitable Billie Burke:

"A few drinks every day," says Billie, "are worse for a woman's appearance. In the long run, than getting positively pie-eyed, twice a year."

But that, after all, is just another instance of the doubtful value of "expert testimony."

Most of us will go right on believing that alcohol has nothing to do with female pulchritude, until we hear of the first newspaper reader mistaking a picture of Ella Boole for Peggy Joyce.

TELLING IT TO THE MARINE!

BISHOP IMPRESSES ONE WITH PERFECT POISE IN TRYING SITUATION

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, does not look his nearly 67 years, despite the stress and strain he has been subjected to of late.

He looks crippled and feeble, but not very old. Until he fell a victim to what is now known as arthritis, but formerly was plain, old-fashioned rheumatism, he suggested, in appearance, rather the alert business man than the clergyman.

In a long experience in the editorial calling I have met quite a few bishops, of two or three different denominations, and they mostly impressed me as temperamental (shall I say?) heavyweights. Not that they necessarily were physically big, but that it seemed to me natural to think of them in connection with bulk more than speed.

By this I mean nothing disparaging. I simply am trying to supply a picture of Bishop Cannon by describing his opposite. The idea he gives rise to is not of the type which knocks its victims cold at a blow, but cuts them to ribbons with marvelous celerity.

His recent hearing, when he was vindicated before an ecclesiastical tribunal at the Mount Vernon Methodist church in Washington, was so secret that nothing except second-hand rumors are available concerning its details; yet all these agree upon the bishop's extraordinary coolness and self-possession in the face of an exceedingly trying situation.

I can well believe it, recalling his behavior before the senatorial lobby investigating committee which cited him as a witness some months ago.

The examination was not friendly to him, but his poise was perfect throughout. He knew an attempt was being made to catch him in the least statement which could be used to his disadvantage and he knew exactly how to avoid stepping into any such trap, no matter how cleverly it might be concealed in an entirely harmless-sounding line of questioning.

The bishop is only of medium stature and his figure is slender. His face, graven now with lines of illness, no longer in the past than the 1928 presidential campaign, in which he took so active and since bitterly criticized a part, habitually wore a quizzical art of dining, women have men backed up in a corner. An examination of records covering four millions of diners in New York hotels, reveals that rare delicacies and dishes are ordered for the most part by female diners. Men stick to the dishes they know; and especially when alone order such well known classics of the table as roast beef, steaks, cabbage, ham and eggs, and, of course, hash.

PROGRESS MINUS HARMONY. And in the same town where such things are possible, the task of simplifying the function of living, progresses uninterruptedly. Mechanical substitutes are daily being devised for every human need. The latest is an automatic grocery in your own apartment house, responding to the click of an inserted coin and disgorging canned goods, meats and vegetables.

Science does everything for the New York home except hold it together.

expression, not quite a smile and still almost a hint at one lurking at the corners of his clipped, gray-mustached lips. In fact, his visage had a good deal of humor in it—pretty completely lost now.

He was positive in what he said, but not overbearing. He had things sized up and told what would happen—not that they MUST happen, merely because he willed it; simply that they WOULD.

Bishop Cannon has, of course, plenty of pugnacity, but he is not ostentatious with it.

Instead of carrying all before him, by the impact of a tremendous personality, I judge him to be a fighter who generally has had his battles won before he went into them, through the superiority of his preliminary planning—his mastery of tactics and his able strategy.

"Smart" is an adjective which fits the bishop particularly well. His mind is keen and penetrating. He has a very sharp eye for the least weakness in an adversary.

Many an expression of opinion was heard, following the late Wayne B. Wheeler's death, that Bishop Cannon would make an exceptionally suitable successor to the former as the Anti-Saloon league's field commander.

It seemed to me at the time that he had precisely the qualities for the post.

The league's elder statesmen, I understand, considered it a choice of doubtful expediency, as implying too close an affiliation with a single denomination. Perhaps also the bishop himself did not care to be chosen. All the same, the

Peter's Adventures

A BEE'S CRY FOR HELP

The wind set the golden rod stalk to swaying, and Peter was soon rocked to sleep. How long his nap lasted, the boy never knew, but he awakened with a violently shaken.

"Good gracious! What is happening! Can it be an earthquake? Why, the very ground beneath me seems to be quivering! It is hard to hold on to this stem!"

Peter spoke truly. A moment more, and he would have been tossed from his perch among the goldenrod leaves to the cold, hard ground. Suddenly the shaking ceased. A voice cried:

"Help! help! Save me, somebody, please! There goes one of my wings! Oh, dear me!"

In spite of evident terror, the voice, faint as it was, was clear as a bell. And somehow the voice sounded familiar to the boy and seemed to come from right over his head. Looking up Peter was horrified to see a poor little honey bee struggling in the grasp of a pair of ugly claws that belonged to some monster hidden among the blossoms of the goldenrod. Slowly but surely the ugly claws pulled the poor little honey bee to its doom. Without stopping to think what might happen to one who interfered with the best laid plans of a monster Peter cried:

"Hey, there! Let go of that poor honey bee! If you don't take your ugly claws off him it will be the worse for you! You will have to answer to me!"

Peter started to climb to the honey bee's rescue.

Vegetable Loaf.—Three tablespoons melted butter or other fat, two cups soft bread crumbs, one cup chopped cooked celery, one cup diced cooked carrots, one cup cooked peas or string beans, four tablespoons liquid from cooked vegetables, two eggs, beaten; one teaspoon salt, pepper. Mix the fat with the bread crumbs, and reserve about one-fourth cup for the outside of the loaf. Mix together all the ingredients, form into a loaf on a sheet of greased paper cover the surface with the crumbs, place on a rack in a moderate oven for 30 minutes. The loaf should be hot through and the crumbs golden brown. Serve with tomato sauce.

Plain Tomato Sauce.—Two cups canned tomatoes, one bay leaf, one-half to three-fourths teaspoon salt, two allspice, one teaspoon sugar, two slices onion, two cloves, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Cook the ingredients for 10 minutes. Strain through a fine sieve. Measure the liquid. For each cup of liquid allow two tablespoons flour and two tablespoons butter. Melt the butter, add the flour and when they are thoroughly blended add the seasoned tomato juice and stir until thickened. Place over hot water for five or ten minutes. Serve hot with croquettes or meat loaf.

Quick Turnip Soup.—Four cups milk, two cups grated raw turnip, one and one-fourth teaspoons salt, one-half teaspoon grated onion, one tablespoon flour, two tablespoons butter or margarine, one-half teaspoon parsley, cut very fine. Heat the milk in a double boiler, add the flour and butter, which have been well blended, then the turnip, the onion and the salt. Cook until the turnip is tender, or for about ten minutes. Sprinkle the parsley in the soup just before serving. With this soup serve toasted cubes of bread or croutons. An easy way to make croutons is to spread slices of bread lightly with butter. Cut each slice into strips, then into cubes. Brown the cubes in the oven.

Dutch Sauce.—One cup liquid from fish, one cup milk, two tablespoons butter, one and one-half tablespoons flour, two egg yolks, one teaspoon lemon juice, one-half teaspoon salt, pinch pepper and paprika. Make as white sauce. Just before serving, pour over beaten eggs, add lemon juice. If desired, add one tablespoon chopped parsley.

Diphtheria Is Curable

—By—
LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Predicting what will happen in the next ten years, Normal Bel Geddes makes two prophesies of medical interest.

There will be no more epidemics. There will be no incurable diseases.

We all hope he is right, but we have a long way to go. For incurable diseases we need not only the means to cure, but education of the public to use the means.

Diphtheria, for instance, is certainly a curable disease. We know exactly how to cure it and how to prevent it. Yet there are plenty of people who still die of diphtheria. They die because they or their families do not call a doctor in time, do not become convinced of the seriousness of the disease until too late. Or because they do not realize the reliability and harmlessness of anti-toxin. Or because some crank or faddist has warned them never to take a serum.

It is not always lack of knowledge, therefore, that prevents diseases from being cured. Sometimes it is lack of, or harmful, education of the public. Nowhere is this more evident than in the kind of instruction the public is constantly getting about diet. Many newspapers and magazines seem to think they can't interest their readers with the plain truth about wholesome dieting. So cranks and faddists spread the most outrageous absurdities about the subject, doing harm both to those who take their advice and to those in the legitimate business of selling wholesome food.

When people have learned to use the means they already have to cure disease, I will believe that the conquest of incurable diseases may be at hand.

A book called "We Take To Bed," by Marshall McGuire, has come to my desk. It should be of great interest to everybody, but especially of value to patients who have tuberculosis, because it shows that even the worst cases can get well. The two young people described, man and wife, had every possible experience with the disease. One had an early case, one an advanced case. They overcame nearly every obstacle tuberculosis patients have to conquer—poverty, the necessity of renouncing the joys of life while you are young, the companionship of their child. Their triumph is an illustration of Osler's phrase, "Getting well of tuberculosis depends more on what you have in your head than in what you have in your chest."

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

Mrs. H. M. C.: "I have some blisters on the palms of my hands which I am sure are caused from what I eat, as they disappear when I fast. I only weigh 107 pounds and have lost too much weight dieting. Is it possible to change the blood by shots in the arm? I have been to nine doctors and through a clinic, and used lots of medicine. What shall I do now?"

Answer: Blisters on the palms of the hands are caused by many different things. Most of them are not serious. You seem to be doing yourself more harm dieting to treat the disease than the disease itself does. Eating enough is just as much a form of dieting treatment as keeping away from certain foods. You have never found the cause of your blisters. Consult a dermatologist, an M. D. who specializes in diseases of the skin.

Editor's Note: Four pamphlets and four articles by Dr. Clendenning can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each pamphlet and 2 cents in coin for each article, with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," and "Feminine Hygiene." The articles are: "Normal Diet," "Diet of the Expectant Mother," "Tuberculosis" and "The Atonic Abdominal Wall."

Girl Advised To Seek Qualities

—By—
MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am 20. I met a young man a year ago. I have been going with him since then. He is somewhat older than I am and I like him very much. He has been so nice to me.

"He has no bad habits like drinking, smoking or gambling. He says there is no other girl like me."

"But, Virginia, he is not handsome and he is not wealthy. I am asking advice whether to stop on that account or not. PEG."

Why, Peg, I'm surprised at you. Of course you know the saying that beauty is only skin deep. It's true, in a way, and a handsome husband is a questionable blessing, as is a beautiful wife, unless she has plenty of balance. Other women are apt to find the handsome husband alluring, and the woman who possesses an Adonis for a mate may be kept in constant hot water, especially if she is at all inclined to be jealous.

Every husband, no matter how he looks, is certain to look terrible to his wife sometime. Peg. On the other hand he will often look positively handsome to you, even though homely, if you love him and he is good to you.

There always are times when a loving husband is tempted to hurl the dishes at her husband, and if he is mean and petty, hot tempered and unreasonable, the temptation will be even greater if he looks like Jove. On the other hand, a man who is considerate, protective, jolly and sweet-tempered will look mighty fine and manly, no matter if his features are not regular, his eyes charming, and his hair straight.

And as to wealth: a famous woman said the other day in my hearing: "I have found few things that money can buy." One must, to be happy, have the ability to earn enough for daily needs—for adequate food, clothing, home and some luxuries and fun—but wealth—what can it do for one? It won't give you real friends, health, children, love, appreciation of the finer things of life. It can give you nothing but worry and discontent—that is, more wealth than you can comfortably use. If I were offered my choice of two husbands—a rich man and a man who had ability to make enough to supply the necessities of life, but who helped me to take life not too seriously, making a gay adventure of it and having fun and thrills even out of the hardships, who was my pal and comforter in time of trials, I would snatch at the latter and know life could give me nothing better than a long life as his wife. I think you know now what my advice is.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a girl in the seventh grade. I am 12. I have black hair and gray eyes. I am very fat and the children call me 'cow.' What shall I do about it?"

DORIS

I'd take myself in hand, if I were you, Doris. I would stop eating cake, candy, too much ice cream, etc. I would eat small quantities of lean meat, plenty of fruit and vegetables, especially green and raw vegetables, would drink plenty of water, a quart of milk a day in some form. These are the things that keep you well.

And I would learn to dance—if you don't—acrobatic dancing would be fine; jump rope and run and get thinner, if possible. It's worth trying. And very likely as you grow into your teens you will slim out, anyway. You see, I did get your letter.

Wondering Ruth: Both boy and girl friends are part of the fun of high school, Ruth, but I think you do well to discourage too much going and to be interested in your school work. You will, as you say, have time for that kind of fun later on.

Glad you always have a good time at parties. A jolly, lively girl is always a favorite.

Soft Water Helps Make Lather

—By—
GLADYS GLAD

"DEAR MISS GLAD: I have always used a soap composed of palm oil and tallow on my skin. It is a pure, bland soap and forms a rich, creamy lather, and it has proved most beneficial to my skin. However, I recently moved to another state, and now I find that this same soap does not lather at all. A hard scum seems to form on it that prevents it from lathering. What is the cause of this change in the soap?"

CHAINED TO WHEEL FOR 104 HOURS

LYLE WOOD, better known as "Pancho Palmer," barnstorming Rochester, N. Y., auto endurance driver, successfully completed at 7:30 p. m. Saturday a non-stop marathon drive of approximately 104 hours around Xenia and surrounding territory, the endurance contest being conducted under the auspices of the Lang Chevrolet Co., local auto agency. Wood drove exactly 1,241.1 miles, during which time he did not sleep and never left the wheel of the Chevrolet sedan to which he had been handcuffed at the start of the drive. At 7:30 p. m. Saturday he slipped into a bed in the show window of the Brown Furniture Co., Green St., and made up a little lost sleep.

COMEDY PRESENTED HERE SUNDAY WINS FAVOR OF AUDIENCES

Money nowadays is the cause for much trouble and this was made much trouble and his was made apparent in the theme of "Wages for Wives" a three-act comedy cleverly presented by a group of young people of St. Bridg Church in the school auditorium Sunday afternoon and evening before two large audiences.

Difficulties which arose over the loan of $2,000 by Mary Arden to her husband, Lewis Arden, the husband being unaware of the source of the loan, made a clever background for the situations portrayed by the characters. All of the characters taking part in the comedy carried their parts well and the piece was capably presented.

The cast of characters was as follows: Lewis Arden, a business man, Fred McCormick; Mary Arden, his wife, Rita Kennedy; Mildred Carr, Mary's sister, Helen Downes; Tommy Harrington, Mildred's friend, Neil Donovan; Harvey Beecher, a neighbor, Philip Campbell; Clara Beecher, his wife, Ruth Gulliger; Rhoda, a Negro maid, Elizabeth McCurran. The Rev. Lawrence Wessel directed the sketch.

Music for the program was furnished by an orchestra composed of St. Bridg School pupils. Miss Eleanor McDonnell, accompanied by her sister, Miss Mary McDonnell, sang between the second and third acts of the play. Her numbers were "Serenade" from "The Student Prince" by Sigmund Romberg and "Romance" by Walter Donaldson. Proceeds from the play will be added to the church fund. It is announced.

STOCK APPRAISAL HAS NOT BEEN FILED

Although the appraisal of the stock of the drug store on S. Detroit St., operated by H. L. Sayre, who recently made an assignment, is said to have been virtually completed, by the appraisers named for the purpose, no report of the inventory has been filed in Probate Court, according to Judge S. C. Wright.

It is understood Attorney C. L. Darlington, as assignee, is making an attempt to dispose of the stock at private sale. Failing in this, an application would be made to have the stock sold at public auction. Judge Wright said: "No deal can be consummated for selling the store room until a court order to vacate the premises is made, it is said."

GLEN GAFE DAMAGED BY FLAMES MONDAY IN YELLOW SPRINGS

Damage estimated at $1,000, believed covered by insurance, was caused by fire of undetermined origin which burned the roof off the Glen Cafe operated by William DeWine at Xenia Ave. and Corry St., in Yellow Springs early Monday morning.

An autoist driving through the village toward Xenia at 2 a. m. saw the roof ablaze and roused George DeWine, who was asleep at his home adjoining the cafe. DeWine in turn notified the village fire department, which had the flames under control an hour later.

The fire is thought to have originated from an overheated stove and the entire stock and fixtures in the one and one-half story frame structure were damaged considerably by smoke and water. The adjacent DeWine residence and a store adjoining on the opposite side of the cafe were blistered by the heat but otherwise were not damaged.

WELL, at the famous

Who was it that remarked something about "Friday the 13th" being "hoo-doo day" or "double jump day"?

Tradition has it with those of a superstitious nature that to combine the unluckiest day of the week with the most ill-fated day of the month is nothing short of inviting a calamity.

But hereabouts "Friday the 13th" last week will go down in Xenia Central High basketball history as rather a memorable occasion for on that evening the Buccaneers clinched their fourth straight Miami Valley League title by defeating Greenville High, 18 to 14.

By a coincidence, the Greenville game was also the thirteenth to be played by Xenia so far this season and so it is not too much to say the numeral thirteen is anything but an unlucky figure as far as Buccaneer cagers are concerned.

As matters now stand, Xenia Central cannot possibly do any worse than split even on the current season, even if the Bucs should lose both of their remaining two games this week-end and then be eliminated in the first round of the sectional state tournament at Dayton in March.

Xenia's record stands at eight victories and only five defeats, and there is little doubt that the Bucs will win at least one of the two contests carded for this week, finishing the season with more games won than lost.

The "Little Bucs," Xenia Central's reserve squad members, have been just as good in their own way as their big brother Buccaneers in competition with other reserve teams of the Miami Valley League this season.

The Xenia reserves are likewise unbeaten in the league, having presumably clinched the "reserve" championship of the league by virtue of four straight victories over Sidney, Troy, Miamisburg and Greenville.

Both the "Big Bucs" and the "Little Bucs" will have an opportunity to make it a "grand slam" in the league Friday night when they clash with Piqua Central High first and second teams on the home floor of the Indians.

Piqua has won only one out of four league engagements this season but apparently has a good defensive combination, and it must be remembered the Indians scored an early season victory over Dayton Steele, which in turn, subsequently defeated the previously unbeaten Springfield High quintet and damped Dayton Stivers in easy fashion last Friday night.

The eagerly awaited home game with Dayton Stivers, the last on Xenia Central's schedule, will materialize Saturday night at Central High gymnasium, marking the first appearance of an Orange Crusader quintet in this city in many, many years.

The three-time state champions are not so strong this season and Xenia cagers this time may be able to accomplish what has heretofore been impossible—defeat a Stivers basketball team.

Springfield, Chamblaine and Steele—to mention three teams—have each given Stivers what has been coming to it for a long time, this season, and the Buccaneers might just as well keep up the good work. As a matter of fact, Saturday's home game will provide Xenia with an opportunity the like of which may never come again, and here's hoping the Bucs win while the winning is possible.

HOME CADETS LOSE

The O. S. and S. O. Home basketball quintet found itself outclassed and lost to the Indiana Soldiers' and Sailors' Children's Home five, by a margin of 35 to 12 in a game staged at Knightstown Ind., Saturday afternoon. TROY FORWARD STILL LEADING SCORERS IN MIAMI VALLEY LOOP

Although unable to increase his own total because his team has completed its league schedule, Oxy, clever Troy High forward, still remains as the high individual scorer in the Miami Valley League, despite the fact two games were staged last Friday night.

Oxy, with thirty-four points has a five-point lead over his nearest rivals, Campbell, Troy guard, and Kritzer, Sidney forward, who are tied for runnerup honors, each with twenty-nine points.

Harold Glass, Xenia center, and possibly Birch Xenia center, are the only two players with even an outside chance of overthrowing the Trojan leader, and it is unlikely that either Buccaneer cager will be able to accomplish the feat.

In order to tie Oxy for high scoring honors, it would be necessary for Glass, who now has twenty-two points, to score twelve points against Piqua Central in the final league game of the season Friday night, whereas Bell would have to tally sixteen as he now has only eighteen to his credit.

Opposing league teams have been able to put the ball and chain on Bell pretty well this year and he has been guarded closely in view of the fact he was runnerup to John Hurley, Xenia center, for high score honors in the league last year.

A total of forty-one players have participated in the point-making in the league in fourteen games this season, and of this number twenty-two have scored at least ten points. Following is a complete list of all players who have scored, and the number of points to the credit of each individual player in league competition:

Bill LeSourd, southpaw forward on the Lang Chevrolet Falcon basketball quintet, and one of the star performers on the Xenia semi-pro combination, is one of the few former Xenia Central High athletes who have made good in college cage circles.

Bill starred for Xenia High basketball teams for three years and played quarterback on football teams for two years preceding graduation in 1921 and he was a member of the Xenia quintet which reached the semi-finals of the southern division of the state tournament at Delaware, O., in 1920-21. That was the best showing a Xenia five has ever made in the yearly state tourney.

LeSourd subsequently starred for Ohio Wesleyan University in basketball and also in baseball for three years and captained the Battling Bishops' in basketball in his junior year in 1923-24. Later he played professional basketball with the Selects, leading the Zanesville, O., pro-team, for several seasons.

Bill also, by the way, is one of the leading flycatchers and hitters in local softball circles, covering the left field garden for the Downtown Country Club softball team.

PENNSY GIRLS LOSE TO WESTERN REGION OUTFIT AT CHICAGO

Playing its fourth game of the season in the four-team league of the Western Region of the system, the Xenia Pennsylvania Railroad girls' basketball team, representing the Cincinnati Division, was defeated by the crack Chicago General Office feminine quintet, 55 to 5 in a league game staged at Chicago, Ill., Saturday.

The Chicago girls, who recently appeared in Xenia, losing an exhibition game to the Kiefer-Alten girls of Dayton, held the experienced Xenia five scoreless during the first half and at the intermission the Windy City cagers had accumulated seventeen points. Elizabeth Weingart, star forward, tallied the only field goal obtained by the Xenia team during the game.

The league record of the Xenia girls now includes one victory and two defeats and they will wind up their schedule next Saturday in a return game with the Crestline, O., girls on the Crestline floor. Line-ups:

XENIA HIGH RENEWS MIAMI VALLEY LOOP LEASE FOURTH TIME

Pennant Is Cinched; Piqua Win Would Make Perfection

The lease which Xenia Central High has always held on the Miami Valley League basketball title has been renewed by the Buccaneers for a fourth straight year.

Surmounting the fourth obstacle in its path, Xenia Central preserved its unbeaten status in league competition and clinched retention of the championship for another season by side-tracking Greenville High, 18 to 14, Friday night.

Sidney High which has lost only two games all season—both to league opponents—gained a tie with Greenville for runnerup position in the loop standing by vanquishing Piqua Central, the same evening, 21 to 16.

All of the teams with the exception of Xenia and Piqua have wound up their league schedules and the Buccaneers and Indians will clash in the final game Friday night this week at Piqua. The Trojans, by winning, could tie Troy for third place, while Xenia, if victorious, will achieve the remarkable distinction of finishing four consecutive seasons, undefeated, in league competition and with a record of twenty successive triumphs.

In winning four league games, Xenia has scored a total of only fifteen more points than opposing teams, an indication of how close all its victories have been. The Bucs have the best defensive record of the league but Troy still has the best offensive record with 114 points scored in five games.

The league standing with points scored by and against each team follows:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.	P. P.
Xenia	4	0	1.000	79 64
Greenville	3	2	.600	73 83
Sidney	3	2	.600	93 90
Troy	2	3	.400	114 95
Piqua	1	3	.250	56 70
Miamisburg	1	4	.200	82 95

ANTIOCH DROPS ONE TO CAPITAL OUTFIT ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Lutheran Forward Contributes 34 Points To 65-14 Victory

Sensational shooting on the part of Gene Mechling, star Lutheran forward, who contributed thirty-four points on fifteen baskets and four free throws, aided Capital University to swamp Antioch College's Division "A" basketball quintet, 65 to 14 in a game staged at Loy gymnasium in Columbus Saturday night.

Mechling established what is believed to be a new individual scoring record in Ohio college basketball circles and brought his three-year total to 575 points.

Capital's margin at the half was 26 to 7, with Mechling having accounted for eighteen points. Hopelessly behind, Antioch cagers endeavored to keep possession of the ball as much as possible in the second half to hold down the score, but Mechling, shooting from all angles, added six more baskets and two fouls to his previous total.

MAJORITY OF COUNTY TEAMS TO WIND UP SCHEDULES THIS WEEK

By BIRCH BELL

One school has already finished its season's play prior to the annual Greene County class B Cage tournament and seven more county teams will wind up their campaigns this week end. Bellbrook High boys' and girls' teams ended their play for the regular season when they met the Springfield Valley teams at Bellbrook last Friday night.

Spring Valley High boys' and girls' teams will write "finis" on their regular campaigns by playing host to the boys' and girls' teams of Bryan High Friday night. This will also mark the final pre-tournament games for the Yellow Springs teams. Both teams have experienced considerable difficulty in winning games this season and the outcome of the contests Friday night may be in doubt until the final whistle. Bryan teams were idle the past week.

Beavercreek and Jamestown High teams will bring their campaigns

JEFFERSON VICTOR OVER JAMESTOWN IN TWIN TILTS FRIDAY

Bowersville Boys And Girls Both Win In Double Header

Jefferson Twp. High boys' and girls' basketball teams won a double header over the Jamestown High teams at Jamestown Friday night, the boys by a 40 to 17 score and the girls 22 to 18. In a preliminary Jefferson Junior High defeated Jamestown Juniors 12 to 6.

Jefferson Twp. boys had little difficulty in winning. They jumped into the lead at the onset of the combat and were never headed, the score at the half gave them a 22 to 11 lead. Hargrave led the scoring for the winners with seven field goals and three fouls for a total of seventeen points for the evening. Linton scored ten points for the winners. Staley tallied five points for the losers.

The girls' contest was an exciting affair with Jefferson girls leading 12 to 11 at the close of the period. They came back in the second half and established a lead that the Jamestown girls never overcame. The scoring was evenly divided between the Jefferson forwards. Pickering scored twelve points for the losers. Lineups:

LEESBURG DEFEATS ROSS BOYS 35 TO 23; GIRLS TURN TABLES

Boys Even In Field Goals But Lose At Free Throw Line

Ross Twp. High boys basketball team lost a hard fought game to Leesburg High boys by the score of 35 to 23 Saturday night. Ross girls made up for part of this defeat, however, by defeating the Leesburg sextet 26 to 23 in a preliminary.

Ross boys could not get going Saturday night and fouled their opponents with consistency. Both teams contributed the same number of field goals, ten, but the Leesburg boys crashed through with enough foul shots to give them a decisive victory over the Greene County lads. Ross boys counted but three fouls, while the Leesburg quintet counted fifteen. The score at the half gave Leesburg an 18 to 10 advantage and it held the lead throughout the contest. Polk scored eleven points for the winners.

The Ross lassies jumped into the lead at the start of their contest and were never headed, holding a 9 to 6 lead at the halfway point.

Ross will meet the Jeffersonville High teams in a double header Thursday night of this week. Lineups:

Stove League Gossip

The spirit of peace which seems to animate major league and minor-league relations is not 100 per cent, throughout all baseball, after all. There's been a merry little bit of warfare going on between two of the smaller fellows, the Three-I and Central league.

These two circuits are neighbors, the Three-I comprising eight fairly large cities in Illinois and Indiana and the Central, as now constituted, four important communities in Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

Permission granted Dunn by the Central league to transfer some of Springfield's reserve list players to Bloomington was cancelled when it was charged that the Springfield club's franchise status had been misrepresented.

Difference between the two circuits broke out when Joe Dunn, one-time veteran Three-I league manager and owner of the erstwhile Springfield Central league club withdrew and signed to pilot the Bloomington Three-I club.

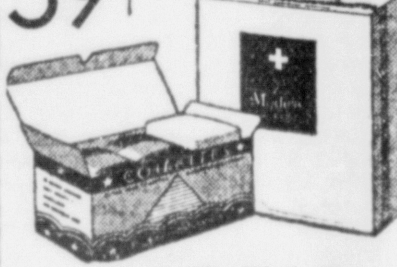

There were charges that the Three-I boys had attempted to disrupt the Central league and Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball's high commissioner, was asked to probe matters.

Failure of Springfield to retain organized baseball is remarkable because only last season Dunn not only captured the Central league pennant but won the "big boy" series" by trouncing Danville, Three-I pennant winner, in a post-season series.

CEDARVILLE LOSES FRIDAY, SATURDAY TO SOUTHERN TEAMS

Rio Grande Victor 37 33; Morehead Wins 27-22

Cedarville College's basketball team lost two closely contested games to Rio Grande College and Morehead College at Morehead, Ky., on successive nights Friday and Saturday.

The Borstmen bowed to Rio Grande cagers, 37 to 33 in an overtime contest on the Rio Grande floor Friday night. The Yellow Jackets led by three points at the half and had the game won with thirty seconds left to play, but a free throw evened the score at 33 to 33 when the regulation playing period ended and in the extra five-minute session Cedarville was held scoreless while its opponents scored four points on two baskets. The game was staged on a narrow floor.

Saturday night the Borstmen frustrated basketball relations with Morehead College, dropping another heart-breaker to the Kentucky school, 27 to 22, after again leading at the halfway point, 11 to 8. This game was won at the foul line as the teams tallied the same number of field goals.

Cedarville will play only one game this weekend, visiting Columbus to play Bliss Business College Friday night. This will be a return game with the Bookkeepers.

A Favorite Kipling Story

IT IS recorded of this well-known British author that he once remonstrated with a friend for having sent him a publication from which the advertising pages had been cut. "Why, you have thrown away the most interesting section!" Mr. Kipling said.

Advertisements are more interesting today than at any time since the invention of movable type. Merchants and manufacturers realize that their announcements must compete for interest with the work of the high-priced authors and illustrators.

If you are not a regular reader of the advertisements in this paper, this is a good time to cultivate their acquaintance. You will find them interesting. You will find them friendly. They show you where to stop and take considerable strain off both shoe-leather and pocketbooks.

Read the advertisements because they are interesting. Believe them because they are true. Act upon their suggestions because it will pay you in many ways. Before you pick up the telephone, you usually consult the phone book. Before you start out to shop, consult the advertising columns of this paper. They will give you a direct connection with the merchandise you want.

Don't stop with reading the news and editorials. The advertising columns are equally important

Edward G. Robinson, who has made a reputation for himself in gangster roles, will forsake this type when he plays the embittered managing editor in the film version of "Five Star Final," a current Broadway thriller which criticizes the tabloid newspapers.

Warner Bros. recently obtained film rights to the play after a nip-and-tuck race with Paramount which put the writer, Louis Weitzenkorn, under contract. Weitzenkorn was formerly with the New York World and later spent a short time with the New York Graphic. Bernarr MacFadden's notorious tab. His play is considered a terrific indictment of ruthless journalism as exemplified by the tabloids, although, he says the plot and characters are composites rather than presentations of specific instances or persons.

The story concerns a tab publisher who makes a circulation appeal to the masses by the usual methods of bearing down hard on the heart chords and sensationalplayed a gangster and he is waging a determined battle to keep from being typed as one in the films. In consideration of his wish, Warners have already cast him as the cruel ballet-master in "The Idol." * * *

Charles Rogers, new boss at Pathe, is confronted with a situation that will be a test of his ability. Both Ann Harding and Constance Bennett are dissatisfied with their contracts. Ray Garnett would like to accept other offers and Edward Griffith could go to any one of three or four studios. Fortunately, Mr. Rogers is an executive of considerable experience and therefore used to grief.

ism. The managing editor, himself calloused, nevertheless has a feeling of repugnance when his boss orders a twenty-year-old scandal disinterred for newspaper exploitation at a time when the daughter of the principals is about to marry. In spite of this feeling, the managing editor goes ahead with the task, ably assisted by an oily and repugnant clergy-editor. All the usual methods, including pictures, are used and apparently justified by circulation increases. The publisher ignores the heart-breaking appeals of the principals to save them from the new disgrace, but the managing editor lacks the stomach for his task, and throws up his job. Tragedy stalks the principals in the resurrected scandal and sorrow and shame replace happiness in their lives.

The efforts to obtain varied roles for Robinson are largely inspired by the actor himself. Before his memorable appearance as Scarso in "The Racket," he had never

Xenia Scoutmaster Has Served Fifteen Years

By A. G. LEBOLD

It was Elbert Hubbard, the famous American philosopher who said, "Who knows, I may go to that boy tomorrow to borrow money, or to hear him preach, or to defend me in a lawsuit, or he may stand there bare of arm with pulse unfastened, in a white apron, ready to do his duty as the cone is placed over my head and night and death come creeping into my veins. Be patient with the boys. Destiny is just ahead. Be patient with the boys."

Boy Scout Anniversary Week, celebrated last week, reveals and pays tribute to veterans who are working directly with the boys as Scoutmasters or assistants.

Leonard Trunnel, Oak Lawn Apartments, S. Detroit St., last week commemorated his fifteenth anniversary as a Scoutmaster. In point of seniority he is the oldest living Scoutmaster in Greene County and probably in the Tecumseh Council.

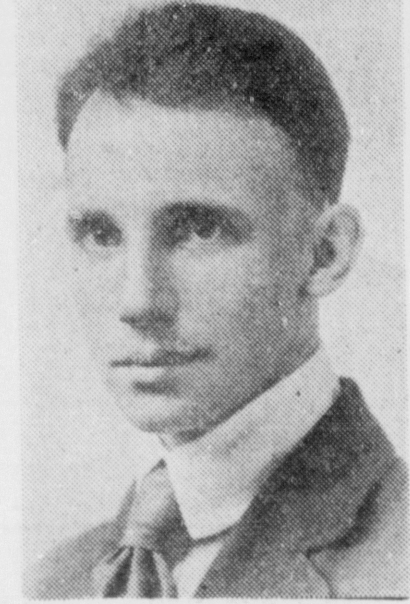

Mr. Trunnel first became a Scout when a high school teacher in Bellevue, Ky., who was interested in boys, gave him a magazine in which the Scout program was outlined. Taking this outline, the veteran Scoutmaster interested several of his class mates and they banded themselves into a patrol. These six or eight boys influenced others until Troop 1 of the old Cincinnati Council was formed. Mr. Trunnel became Scoutmaster of that troop in 1914 when it was taken into the Northern Kentucky Council. Troop 1 was the first organization of Boy Scouts in northern Kentucky, according to Mr. Trunnel's story.

The veteran Scoutmaster is now affiliated with Troop 45 of Tecumseh Council, sponsored by the First Lutheran Church. He is a shoe cutter and has more than six Scout certificates of volunteer training to his credit.

The out of doors program appeals strongly to this pioneer of Scouting, and in this connection he told how Kentucky Scouts made trek carts to be used in carrying camping equipment for long distances. Trek carts are two-wheel affairs with a large store box securely fastened on the wide axle and are pulled by means of a long tongue, similar to a wagon. Each full patrol uses two carts and the boys take turns in pulling the miniature chariot and equipment to the proper destination.

In speaking of the difference in Scouting over the country, Mr. Trunnel said that the movement is much better organized here and that there are more men, especially busy men, interested and working in the organization. "The whole Scout movement seems to be better received by the boys and the community here, and it is growing rapidly," he said. "I have been rewarded many times for all the effort that it has cost me, especially when I think that more than 500 boys have gone through old Troop 1 down there in Bellevue, Ky., and of the high percentage that have already made good names for themselves," said Mr. Trunnel.

Negotiations are now in progress to obtain the proper veteran badge for Mr. Trunnel and it will be presented to him at some future Court of Honor.

POLICE HAVE "MUGGING" BUREAU

Metropolitan Methods Introduced Through Criminal Identification Department

"THE most progressive police department of any city of corresponding size in Ohio."

This bouquet was recently handed the Xenia police department by John W. Park, superintendent of the Ohio State Bureau of Identification and Investigation, located at the London State Prison Farm and was inspired by the introduction of modern methods by Police Chief O. H. Cornwell.

Chief Cornwell has placed in operation a great number of innovations, including an elaborate identification and fingerprint bureau.

The latest improvement to modernize the department, keeping step with progress of departments in large cities, is the installation of equipment for photographing prisoners.

Chief Cornwell has had a small annex to his own private office constructed, built out into the cell block, and in here he has fitted up a dark room for developing pictures now taken of important captives.

The chief has a special camera for making these photos. In the short space of less than two hours one prisoner was recently "mugged," the photos developed and prepared for mailing.

Chief Cornwell had previously had no training in the field of photography but in his spare time picked up useful bits of knowledge until now he could qualify as a full-fledged photographer.

His system of fingerprint classification is no less comprehensive. Fingerprints of all prisoners are taken and a complete index is kept for future needs. Every set of prints is also kept on a "negative" and if extra sets are desired to be sent to any part of the country, the prints are photographed. The equipment also includes a microscope for comparing various sets of prints in establishing the identity of criminal suspects.
